

WHY A PARTY TO STAND UP FOR FAMILIES?

Family First is the only party that has as its whole objective to make sure every piece of legislation helps every Australian family reach its potential.

Family First wants Australia to be the best country in the world in which to live. The party believes that Australian families should have the opportunity to not only survive but thrive.

There are pressing issues that affect families like education, health, housing and employment, relationship breakdown, drug and substance abuse and child abuse. These are serious issues. A strong voice solely committed to families will ensure that issues important to the family are kept at the forefront of political debate in Australia.

Family First will work to refocus the Australian political process onto the issue that is most important to Australians- the health and well being of their families.
